

Fight The Fix

An anti-match-fixing education programme

A programme on successfully leading investigations and prosecuting cases for anti-match-fixing specialists

A word from our programme directors

Match-fixing is a grave threat to the integrity of football, and UEFA is unwavering in its commitment to combat this menace. We are determined to lead by example and protect the values of our beloved sport.

Given the complexity of match-fixing investigation in sport, it is important for all the anti-match fixing community to understand the phenomenon and to enhance its analytical and investigative skills.

What you will mostly gain from the UEFA FTF is this knowledge as well as the ways in which evidence should be presented before the Sports Courts.

By welcoming participants from a variety of backgrounds and organisations, this programme fosters the development of professionalism in anti-match fixing investigation.

Fight The Fix: an anti-match-fixing education programme

The Fight The Fix programme (UEFA FTF) equips professionals involved in fighting matchfixing with the knowledge, tools and skills needed to gather intelligence, lead investigations and assist in prosecution proceedings.

The UEFA FTF programme is a unique training opportunity for professionals working in the field of antimatch-fixing, focusing on the competencies required to lead investigations and prosecute those involved. As well as providing participants with an in-depth knowledge of the phenomenon, the latest developments and monitoring tools, it also addresses the conditions and procedures of investigation and prosecution, from A to Z.

To develop capacities and strengthen relationships, the programme is also open to and beneficial for representatives of other institutions involved in the fight against match-fixing, such as public and law enforcement authorities and other sports organisations. The programme is designed to accommodate different profiles and backgrounds, taking into consideration differences and synergies among the participants when organising group work and activities.

Programme outcomes

- Analytical and technical skills and intelligence-gathering and investigation (I&I) capabilities needed to successfully identify, investigate and prosecute match-fixing cases
- Key tools and methodologies used in detecting and assessing suspected match-fixing
- Guidance on analysing data collected from a wide range of sources
- Best practices for information sharing and storage
- Skills needed for effective witness inquiry management, investigative report writing and hearing preparations
- How to collate sufficient admissible evidence to go to sports courts
- How to work effectively alongside public authorities and law enforcement

Testimonials

The UEFA-FTF program was an inspiring and transformative milestone in my career. It allowed me to delve into advanced investigation techniques and updated monitoring tools. Likewise, it promoted collaboration and the exchange of best practices, a cornerstone to strengthen and enhance our commitment to integrity in CONMEBOL.

Graciela Garay, Director of Ethics and Compliance, CONMEBOL

The course content of the UEFA-FTF programme is impressive – thought provoking, often challenging, but always enjoyable. What really impressed me was the quality and breadth of the course. Building strong and lasting working relationships with colleagues has been an additional benefit to us all.

Tarik Shamel, Head of Integrity, The Football Association

Taking part in this program is a unique occasion to better understand the tools needed to investigate and prosecute match-fixing, which is essential for my organisation in a dialogue with public authorities. I see it as an excellent opportunity to strengthen national and international cooperation.

Nicolas Sayde, Secretary of the Macolin Convention, Council of Europe

Online kick-off

01

Session 1:
Detection

02

Session 2:
Intelligence

03

Session 3:
Prosecution

Common thread practical exercise

In line with the programme's emphasis on hands-on practice, a fictitious match-fixing case will run the length of the programme. Working in small groups, participants will investigate suspected match-fixing, following the full intelligence and investigation process from identification to prosecution. The final stage will be a moot court, in which participants will be involved in simulated sports arbitration proceedings.

Additional short online webinars may be organised between sessions.
