FOREWORD

In today's unpredictable, complex and fast-changing world, sports leaders are facing unprecedented challenges. While it is more important than ever to have a clear vision that is grounded in core values and principles, decision-makers must also demonstrate resilience, adaptability and the ability to navigate uncertainty. Developed by the UEFA Academy, the UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport is a bold new initiative designed to equip sports leaders with precisely these skills and this mindset.

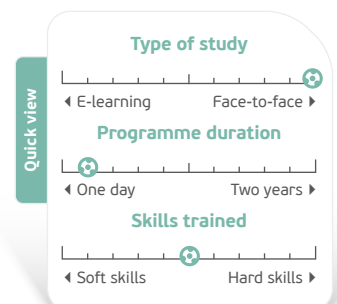

Disrupting our own traditional approach, this compact course is intended to be a fully immersive experience that invites participants to envision new futures for their organisations, processes and teams. While it explores the future, the programme remains firmly anchored in the present. Every conversation you will have, technique you will learn and skill you will develop has one single purpose: to strengthen your leadership and strategic thinking, ensuring your teams and organisations are ready for a future that you will contribute to shape.

UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport (UEFA SFS)

The UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport is a compact course designed for decision-makers in sport who want to strengthen their strategic thinking and leadership in a rapidly changing world. This fully immersive programme equips participants with a foresight mindset and the tools and skills needed to explore plausible futures, anticipate change and drive meaningful transformation within their organisations, for immediate impact.

Why Futures Thinking?

Futures thinking or foresight is the discipline of systematically exploring possible futures to inform decisions made today. In an era defined by rapid change, complexity and uncertainty, foresight is no longer a luxury, it is a strategic necessity. Unlike traditional planning, which often relies on linear projections, foresight embraces the volatility of our world and equips leaders with tools to navigate it. It enables us to explore a range of plausible futures – not to predict what will happen, but to imagine what could happen. This exploration fosters a deeper understanding of emerging trends, risks and opportunities within the sports sector. Most importantly, foresight empowers leaders with a sense of agency: the ability to shape the future rather than merely respond to it.

Programme outcomes

- Develop a sound expertise in foresight and be equipped with a toolkit to expand your strategic thinking and planning.
- Gain access to a living database of trends and scenarios highly relevant for the future of sports and of your organisation.
- Cultivate a mindset that embraces uncertainty and see our rapidly changing world as an ocean of opportunities.
- Practice how to transform your teams and organisation to become more resilient and future-ready.
- Build a network of like-minded senior professionals with whom you will develop individual and collective agency to shape the future of sport.

Programme overview

The UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport is a compact course in futures thinking for immediate strategic impact. This radical, immersive experience invites you to set aside traditional thinking and explore new ways of seeing the world and the sports sector. It is both highly strategic and deeply practical. You will have the opportunity to reflect on the future of your own organisation and revisit its strategy with the goal of transforming it today into a future-ready entity.

Through a series of collective and individual explorations, you will expand the boundaries of your strategic and creative thinking and unlock a new dimension of your leadership. The programme will equip you with a practical foresight toolkit full of exercises and methods you can use with your teams and partners to spark meaningful conversations about the evolution of your organisation, activities and processes.

Grounded in the present, the UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport invites you to consider different plausible futures for your sport and your organisation, and to reflect on what they mean for your current initiatives and plans, leading to immediate actions that have a lasting impact.

Testimonials

“Futures thinking isn’t about predictions or wild scenarios; it’s about learning to see the world not just as it is today but as it could be tomorrow. The UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport will help you shift from certainty to possibility and meet change not with resistance, but with curiosity. This fully immersive programme will enable you to build the mindset needed to navigate uncertainty and act with clarity, no matter what the future holds.”

■ Jörgen van der Sloot, Head of Futures at Minkowski

“In this unique compact course, we will explore polarities. While tucked away in the Swiss Alps for a week, we’ll open our minds to global transformations and harness the power of AI to expand our foresight. As we journey into possible futures, we’ll uncover deeper insights into today’s world. And through creative exploration, we’ll craft concrete, actionable strategies to drive immediate impact.”

■ Thomas Junod, Head of UEFA Academy

“In today’s rapidly evolving sports landscape, foresight isn’t a luxury, it’s a necessity. The UEFA Strategic Foresight in Sport will give you the tools and skills needed to anticipate change and shape the future. Beyond the course itself, you’ll join a powerful network of visionary peers, creating lasting connections that inspire and support your journey ahead.”
